

lived in Gjakovë/Đakovica, on Duvanska kolonija Street. In late April, Hajrullah and his son Flamur were arrested by Serb police and taken to the prison in Prizren. Flamur was released a few days later, but Hajrullah only in June. After being released from prison, Hajrullah and Isuf went to Studenčan/Studenčane to see Flamur, who was staying with his aunt in that village after being discharged from prison. After the visit, Hajrullah and Isuf took a bus to Suharekë/Suva Reka [24 June 1998]. A short distance from Suharekë/Suva Reka, the bus was stopped by KLA members, who took Hajrullah and Isuf off the bus. Their subsequent fate remained unknown to their families for nearly three months. In mid-September, their bodies were found in the Liqeni i Radoniqit/Radonjičko jezero (Radoniq Lake) canal, along with 30 other bodies. Hajrullah was buried in the cemetery in Prizren.
