Sadri (Arif) Kryeziu

(born 28/06/1957, Albanian from Suharekë/Suva Reka, tradesman, four children)

Sadri worked in the JP Panorama kiosk, located near the bridge in Suharekë/Suva Reka. On the morning of 8 July 1998, at about 07:00h, Sadri opened the kiosk as usual. His sister Xhyle was with him. At around 08:30h, Miodrag Nišavić, an inspector with the State Security Service in Suharekë/Suva Reka, who bought newspapers at the kiosk everyday, stopped his car by the kiosk. As he walked up to the kiosk, KLA members shot at him from a distance of 50 metres. Nišavić was wounded, while Sadri was killed in as yet unclarified circumstances. After the shooting, the police took Sadri's body to Prizren for an autopsy, after which they handed it over to Sadri's family. Sadri was buried at around 18:00h in the cemetery in Suharekë/Suva Reka.

Muhamet (Rrustem) Krasniqi

(born 30/01/1973, Albanian from Peqan/Pećane, Suharekë/Suva Reka municipality, worker, one child, member of KLA)

Xhemajli (Avdi) Bytyqi

(born 26/03/1974, Albanian from Peqan/Pećane, Suharekë/Suva Reka municipality, worker, married, member of KLA)

In July 1998, Muhamet and Xhemajli were training young KLA recruits on a daily basis. The morning of 13 July 1998 was no different: Muhamet and Xhemajli were at the training ground near the Barski prvoborci Primary School in Peqan/Pećane. All of a sudden, Serb forces started shelling from the direction of the village of Shirokë/Široko. Some 30 mortar shells pounded the training ground, killing Muhamet and Xhemajli and wounding many others. Muhamet and Xhemajli were buried that same evening in the village cemetery. After the war, on 19 September 1999, their mortal remains were transferred to the Cemetery for Fallen Combatants in Suharekë/Suva Reka.

Razë (Reshat) Palushi

(born 24/04/1985, Albanian girl from Budakovë/Budakovo, Suharekë/Suva Reka municipality, elementary school student)

During July 1998, Razë and her family left their home several times in flight from the shelling, and hid in the nearby mountains. On 17 July 1998 Budakovë/Budakovo was calm. In the evening, around 22:00h, Razë and her mother Asima and brother Elmi had just finished their dinner when the shelling resumed, from the direction of Duhël/Dulje. As Razë went outside to pour some water from a washbowl, a shell went off near the house, killing her instantly. Her family buried her in the village cemetery. After the war, in June 2000, KFOR members exhumed her mortal remains and transported them to the Forensic Medicine Institute in Rahovec/Orahovac for an autopsy. Following the autopsy, her mortal remains were handed over to her family, who re-interred them in September 2000 in the village cemetery.
